

Adoption Day

October 18, 2015 (latest date possible)

- The JCPOA and the commitments of the JCPOA come into effect.
- US and EU suspend or lift the sanctions described in the charts below.

Implementation Day

(2016)

- US and EU suspend or lift the sanctions described in the charts below.

Between Finalization Day and Implementation Day: Iran and the IAEA begin developing arrangements to ensure all transparency measures can be immediately put into effect on Implementation Day

On Adoption Day (or after):

- JCPOA participants make the preparations and arrangements necessary to implement their JCPOA commitments.
- Iran will inform the IAEA that on Implementation Day it will provisionally apply the Additional Protocol (pending ratification) and will fully implement the modified code 3.1. It will also implement ¶ 66 Section M of Annex I.
- The EU will adopt an EU Regulation, taking effect as of Implementation Day, terminating all provisions of the EU Regulation implementing all nuclear-related economic and financial EU sanctions, simultaneously with the IAEA-verified implementation by Iran of agreed nuclear-related measures.
- The U.S., by Presidential authorities, will issue waivers, to take effect upon Implementation Day, to cease the application of the statutory nuclear-related sanctions. The President will also direct that all appropriate additional measures be taken to implement the cessation of application of sanctions, including terminating of Executive orders and the licensing of activities.
- E3/EU+3 participants and Iran to discuss an official document to be concluded before Implementation Day to express the participants' strong commitments to the Arak Heavy Water Reactor modernization project and define their responsibilities.
- The EU, its Member States and the United States consult with Iran regarding relevant guidelines and publicly accessible statements on the details of sanctions or restrictive measures to be lifted under this JCPOA.
